Breakfast just got better with Mag St Bread Co., which will home deliver the gruyere cheese puffs and brioche buns that you know and love from sister-concern The Table. Also sourdough loaves, scones and that kouign-amman that no one else in Bombay does.

Oh my!

The Table's Gauri Devidayal tells us that Magazine Street Kitchen has been running wholesale deliveries for about five months now, but enough people have sent yearning texts and made eyes over the croissants for the team to send out individual orders too, currently via Scootsy (PS: don't forget to use your Coup Card Scootsy code!)

We also hear that some city culture has been transplanted to an undisclosed location in Bandra, from where Mag St Bread Co will begin retailing before November is out. Gauri is steadfastly keeping the lid on this secret, however; watch this glace for more.

Getting there: Mag St Bread Co, order on Scootsy here, Rs 500 for four kouign-amman, 48 hours pre-order.
